Mosaics with Liana (for all levels)

Introduction:

What is a Mosaic? A mosaic is a work made up of cut fragments with no particular identity. These cut pieces - which may be made of glass, shell, stone, or china - are assembled together with the binding agent but with gaps left between them. When a mosaic is completed it gains an identity either through a recognisable image or an abstract design.

It is an additive medium - one piece follows another - and has been used since at least the fourth millennium BC in this way to decorate and express the needs and feelings of people, both publicly and domestically. It is a wonderful medium and can utilise the simplest and the most luxurious of materials from stones and pebbles to glass and gold. It has always held a fascination for people, and its versatile nature can be adapted to a wide range of needs. Practical, beautiful, forceful, enduring, magical, awesome - it can be all these things, but above all it holds the power to inspire admiration and imitation.
